- createtables.sql: a file that creates all the tables that the database needs.
- insert.sql: a file that inserts all the data for testing.
- queries.sql: a file that runs through all the test cases required in part 2 of the project.
- customer_page.html: a file that shows all the features a customer can do after the customer login.
- customer_register.html: a file that allows users to input all the data they need in order to register an account.
- goodbye.html: a file that shows up after the customer clicks logged out and it asks customers to go back to the index.html page.
- index.html: a file that shows the basic interface for AL Flyhub, allows users to search for flights, register as a customer or airline staff, and log into the system either as a customer or as a staff member.
- purchase_process.html: a file that provides a form for users to finalize the purchase of a flight ticket by entering all the payment information.
- purchase_success.html: a file that displays a confirmation page after a successful flight ticket purchase, showing the passenger's information and ticket information.
- rate_flights.html: a file that provides a page where users can view their completed fights and submit ratings and comments for each one.
- search_results.html: a file that displays flight search results with sections for departure and return flights, allowing logged-in users to purchase tickets or navigate back to their respective pages.
- track_spending_range.html: a file that displays spending details for a customer date range. It shows the total amount spent within the selected range and a month-wise breakdown of the spending.
- track_spending.html: a file that racks user spending, showing total spending in the past year, month-wise spending for the last 6 months, and a form to track spending within a custom date range. Includes a link back to the customer page.
- view_my_flights.html: a file that displays upcoming flights with cancellation options; links back to the customer page.

- staff_register.html: a file that allows users to register with a username and password
- staff_page.html: the homepage for all staff after logging in
- view_flights.html: a file that shows the view flights functionality for Airline Staff. Staff can search for flights given start/end date and departure/destination airport/

- create_flight.html: a page where staff can create new flights for the database.
- change_flight_status.html: a page where staff can change the status of a given flight
- add_airplane.html: a page where staff can add an airplane to the given airline.
- confirm_add_airplane.html: after a new airplane is added, this is a confirmation page that shows all airplanes operated by the airline.
- add_airport.html: a page where staff can add a new airport
- view_flight_ratings.html: a page where staff can see the ratings and comments of flights given by customers.
- schedule_maintenance.html: a page where staff can schedule maintenance for airplanes
- view_frequent_customers.html: a page where staff can see the customer who has flown the most amount of flights with the given airline. There is also a form on this page that allows the staff to see all the flights a particular customer has been on for that airline.
- customer_flights.html: a page that shows all the flights a particular customer has been on for that airline
- view_revenue.html: a page that shows the revenue generated by the airline in the past month and year
-